Camilla,

It has really been a pleasure knowing you, in Choir and outside of school. We have had some good times this semester, I hope we can have some more next year.

Best wishes for the happiest life possible.

HOW(e) TIME FLIES...

as we see the changing seasons come and go, leaving memories of good times—and others—in the lives of 1975 Howeites. We remember the times 8:15 seemed too early in the morning for school to start, and then there were occasions when 8:30 didn't seem early enough in the evening for a Howe dance to begin. Curtain time for the Pleasant Run Revue passed so quickly that it was time for the Revelers play before we knew it. Five-minute times between classes flew by and there were deadlines to meet and assignments to finish. Seconds vanished at football and basketball games when the crowd began the countdown. And now time has turned the calendar to June again. Howe time flies!

Convening in the Howe gym, Nationalist convention delegates nominate candidates for state offices. After a rousing campaign, Nationalists were victorious.

Mock election sparks enthusiasm among Bud Mansfield listens attentively while Mr. Crawford explains the proper technique of scratch voting.

"Caucus after school in Room 42." "Have all of the slogans and posters been made for the demonstration tomorrow?" As queries such as these become more noticeable in the halls of Howe each fall, pupils become aware that the date of Howe's mock election is fast approaching. Although the election is confined to social studies classes, it makes everyone more aware of election procedures. Party conventions find the campaign activities reaching a peak of excitement.

The victory of a Nationalist governor this year proved that Howeites believe in the split ticket, since the Federalists captured most of the state, county, and city offices for the fifth consecutive year. Although somehow the party in power did not manage to provide Howe the promised 50,000 seat auditorium, air-conditioning, and lounge chairs in all classes, the election benefited all who participated and gave those who observed the campaign proceedings a picture of politics in action at the state and local levels.

The world is a stage, and the social studies department gives pupils a chance to see the parts played by many key figures of the past and present, in the world's arena. Economics classes, however, deal with the mechanics and management of government and business. With an imaginary $10,000, economics pupils test their skill and judgment playing the stock market. The unit on communism which Howe incorporated in a course for seniors has received national attention.

In addition to courses which highlight the world, the social studies department offers psychology, sociology, and family relations courses which center on the individual and enable the pupil to better understand himself.

Cadet teachers, working two periods a day in local grade schools, are able to practice teaching to see if their skills lie in that field.

Seniors who have shown proficiency in social studies may compete for the $1,000 Lilly Endowment Foundation Scholarship. A winner is chosen from each city high school on the basis of a written research theme and an oral exam.

Jim Brooks and Pete Henshaw offer Governor Bob Graham a ride down the front steps in the victory special.

Larry Jenkins learns to execute a side vault over the horse as he participates in a physical education class.

Rosalin Greeson keeps busy at the sewing machine as she helps make uniforms for the girls' drill team.

Completing a woodshop project, Bud Smuko applies stain to darken the grain of his coffee-table.

Jerry Cooksey discovers that care and precision are necessary in making correct drawings for his drafting assignments. Here he designs a plan that could be used in the construction of a house.

Howeites master manual skills by practice

While signs of sewing and cooking are evident in the lower corridor, the school's southeast wing buzzes with a different sort of activity. The boys in wood and metal shop classes make and keep tools, bookcases, and other useful articles. Almost all of the tickets, programs, and forms needed by Howe for classes and special events are provided by the boys in print shop.

Two semesters of physical education are required for graduation, but many Howeites take the course longer. They find that skill games, sports, and various types of dancing contribute to their health and their coordination, as well as to their enjoyment.

Pupils are given an opportunity to design and make rings, necklaces, bracelets, and other attractive accessories in jewelry classes. Craft art, meanwhile, shows pupils how to make change purses, wall-hangings, and other decorative and functional items for themselves and for use in their homes.

Patience is the by-word for Sydney Fallowes, as she follows the long process of making a piece of wood smooth enough to use for her craft arts project.

Libraries, lab cells, and guitars play vital

Putting life and rhythm into the musical Spanish language, Mr. James Denny sings a "cancion español."

In Howe's modern language lab, Mr. Raymond Hulce dictates phrases in Spanish to aid pupil's comprehension.

In the three years of required English, pupils study everything from Shakespeare and sonnets to spelling and sentence structure. Pupils in English V write vocational essays which help them with career decisions, while a research theme is the main project in English VII. Many pupils elect a fourth year of English, which includes an intensive grammar review the first semester and a study of English literature the second. Each semester "G" classes are offered in English. Their subject matter is the same as in regular classes, but it allows for more comprehensive study and for work on extra projects.

Every year pupils in all English classes participate in the Book Week campaign. Money donated by the classes is used to purchase new fiction books for the school library. Besides their regular class work, English students have also made fine showings in various English contests.

Special machines and visual aids help pupils in the required nine weeks reading lab course to increase their reading speed and comprehension.

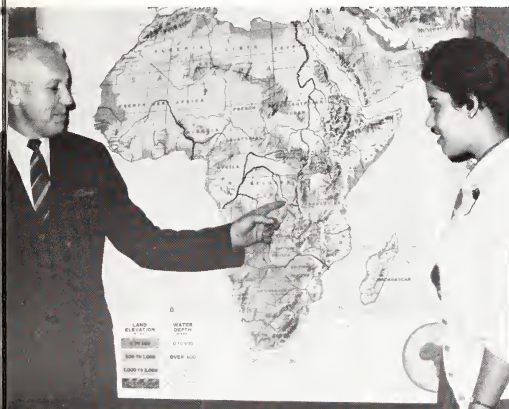

Elective courses in the English department include library practice and public speaking.

With the realization that language can help to bridge many of the barriers that have arisen between various nations, the study of foreign languages is becoming increasingly popular. Howe's foreign language department offers courses in French, Spanish, and Latin as well as a course in Latin and Greek Derivatives. In addition to their regular class work, foreign language students often participate in contests that test their mastery of their chosen language.

The recently installed language laboratory has greatly enhanced the effectiveness of the language program. The twenty-eight booth lab with teacher control unit enables pupils to improve their pronunciation and comprehension of a language with the aid of records and tape recordings while students are free from distraction.

Special activities for French and Spanish pupils often include speakers from their respective lands. All language pupils see films of the land where their language originated. Other visual aids and supplementary material are used in all courses, while Latin students also have a unit on Latin mythology, a study most helpful in literature.

To learn techniques in captivating audience interest, Danette Ware practices delivery on her speech class.

Since his English V term paper must meet a fast-approaching deadline, Bob Leonard works his way through research materials to be used as background information.

Experiments and problems stress accuracy

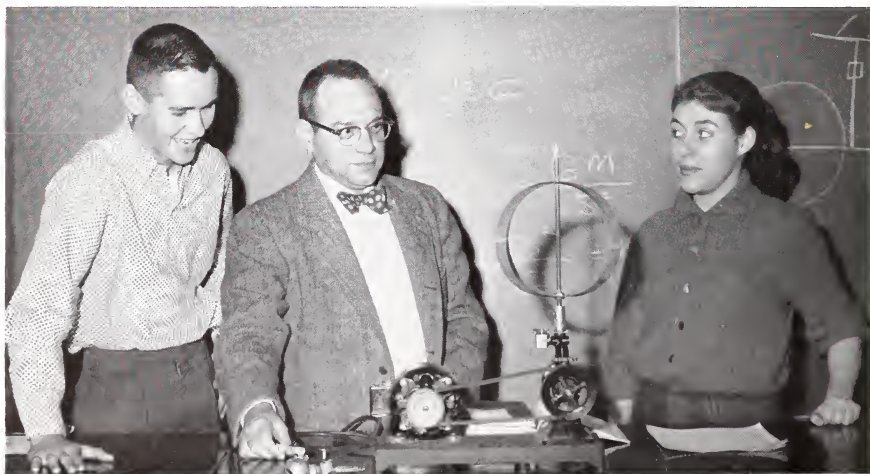

In trigonometry, Bill Hoff and Steve Koepper learn to use the slide rule by working triangle problems.

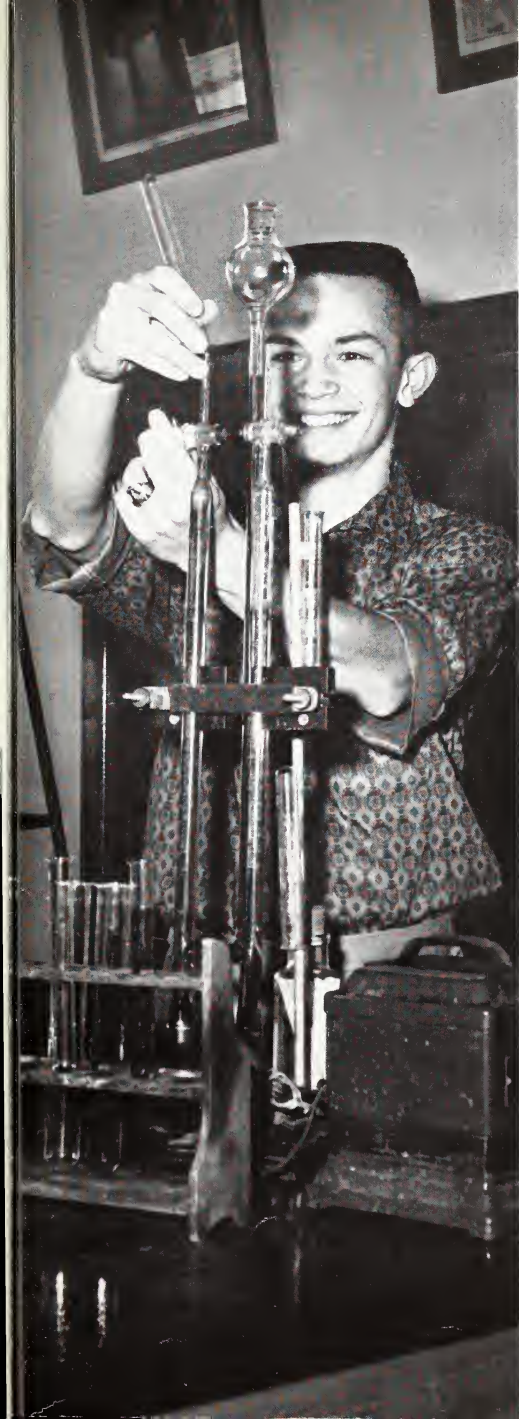

Whether for making sputniks or sprinklers, the use and application of mathematics and science principles has become increasingly important in our modern world. Realizing this fact, Howe's math and science departments have diversified their programs to allow for advanced study and individual achievement. Students in both departments work on extra projects and have made fine showings at regional and state contests.

One year of math is required of all pupils, but for those who choose to continue with advanced courses, college algebra, analytical geometry, calculus, and trigonometry are offered. Graphs, constructed figures, and other visual aids enhance the effectiveness of the math program.

Freshman science and senior physical science give many Howeites a general science background. Those who desire more specific study may choose from biology, chemistry, and physics. The well-equipped science laboratories permit the pupils to apply the many principles they learn in class. Advanced courses and special lab projects are often offered for those with special ability.

After being warned of Mr. Hammond's antics, Les Stewart and Shirley Applegate cast wary eyes as they watch a demonstration of the concept of centripetal force.

After long hours of study, these enthusiastic mathematicians find their efforts profitable.

Top students gain honor and recognition for Awareness that true education involves both high scholastic achievement and strong character has resulted in increased emphasis on developing these attributes in pupils. Recognition of those with outstanding qualities has become an important part of our educational program since it provides extra incentive while laying the foundation for future accomplishments. Scholarships, prizes, and other awards are sometimes rewards for special achievement.

This year Howe had six finalists in the National Merit Scholarship program, which is one of the largest and best known programs of its kind in the country. Final contestants are determined through a series of thorough examinations. Those who become finalists represent the top one half of one per cent of all pupils tested.

Barbara Joseph won the Howe Betty Crocker Homemaking Award this year, while some art students exhibited at art shows and contests. Band and orchestra members also did well in competition in local and state-wide contests.

Each year the Irvington Post of the American Legion honors a senior boy and girl for good citizenship. Recipients of the awards this year were Midge Austin and Fred Shick. Altrusa award winner Sandy Leonard and DAR good citizen Betty Harryman were chosen for their scholarship, leadership, citizenship, and service.

Howeites participate in a wide variety of local, state, and even national contests. Math, English, and foreign language students enter the State Achievement Contests, while many English students enter various essay contests. Math and science students actively participate in a variety of activities to test their skill and bring honor to the school. Speech, debate, and dramatic competition offers a testing ground for those with special abilities in those areas. By cultivating their special abilities, students, with the aid of their teachers, strive to prove that in building character as well as in education, "Howe done is well done."

Hours of diligent work and study were rewarding for National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists Fred Hofrichter, Floyd McWilliams, Rick Scholl, Tim Witsman, Fred Shick, and Judy Lee.

Queen's return brings Violet Hill pageantry

Early in May, the Violet Queen made her traditional return to Violet Hill on which Howe stands. Tradition says that in the years before Howe was built, the Queen of Violets held court each spring on Violet Hill. She now returns with her court each May to see if the challenge for achievement she gave to the student body has been upheld throughout the year.

This year's Philosopher, Tom Hollingsworth, reviewed the legend of the Violet Queen and assured her that the student body had again justified her trust in them. He then crowned Sue Crossland as Queen with a crown of violets. Student Council president, Danny Graves, officially greeted the Queen on behalf of the school. The Queen then renewed her charge of trust. She and her court watched from their vantage point on the hill while the girls' physical education classes entertained them with traditional dances. The "Song of Farewell" played as the Queen and her court left Violet Hill until their return for Howe's next birthday celebration.

Maypole dancers from the girls' physical education classes perform for the school birthday pageant.

The service projects and social functions of Howe's active P.T.A. provide the school with many benefits as well as enjoyment. P.T.A. programs give parents a chance to become acquainted with teachers and to learn about the school curriculum. One of the contributions of this year's P.T.A. was a portrait of Mr. Stirling which they presented to the school.

In the fall the 400 Club, an organization for Howe fathers, gave a spaghetti dinner which, besides raising funds, provided an enjoyable evening for pupils and people of the community.

The P.T.A.'s big project was its annual fun night held in April. The theme this year was "Holidays 'n Howe." A king and queen, nominated by the student body, were elected to reign over the festival. Other attractions of the evening included a fashion show, a style show, and a sock hop. There were also booths which sold gifts, games and food. Activities such as these make the P.T.A. an important part of Howe.

Parents and teachers listen closely as the Howe Choir sings a patriotic selection, opening a P.T.A. program.

Wearing one's "steady ring" can be difficult for girls with small hands, but these Howe girls have solved the problem by filling extra space with adhesive tape or angora.

During the year Howeites enjoy various fads

From September to June, this year has been a special one for Howeites. Clothes, entertainment, weather, and even politics were slightly different from those of other years. It was an election year, and it was a season for planning, dreaming, and being ourselves.

Howeites will remember this school year as the one when girls wore kilts during football season and boys sported vests for nearly every occasion. When J.F.K. entered the White House, the "Jackie Kennedy-look" entered the realm of hair styles. Pixie-cuts, pony-tails, page-boys, and French "poufs," provided variations for female topknots, while the trend among males was to wearing hats. If chapeaux or bangs brushed our glasses' rims, we changed to peering out through new contact lenses. Skirt hems moved to "knee tickler" length, and coats were wide and full. Shoes had pointed toes, and purses began to resemble burlap bags. Drab colors, ranging from olive green to dull brown and mauve covered the fashion displays. Eye cosmetics were modified from the 1959 phases, and the rumor was started that in ten years men will be wearing as much make-up as do their female counterparts.

Cinerama came to Indianapolis in the fall of 1960, and Howeites enjoyed a variety of trips and thrills on the three-section screen. Our neighborhood theatres featured long-long movies, and we saw such films as "Spartacus" and "Ben-Hur." The steel ribs for the new City-County Building rose above the skyline, while far below the towering girders, scores of compact cars scurried through the streets.

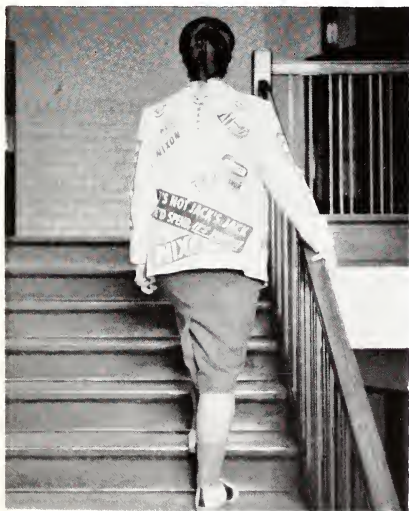

The heavy winter snows in February and March will long be remembered in Irvington as those that broke the trees on old Brown's Hill and congested traffic throughout the state. Howe pupils weathered the Sectionals with chains and snow tires, pin-striped cars and Volkswagen busses, nightly "slumber-less" parties, and an unexpected day of vacation from school.

Pizza was going "out"; Metrecal was coming "in." We feasted on liquid diets in vanilla, butterscotch, or chocolate flavors, but we had Peanutbutter Cups for dessert. Dentyne varied its traditional taste by introducing spearmint gum, and the ninety-eight-cent spread claimed to taste best. We found new styles, food, friends, ideas and opportunities in this year of "new frontiers."

Crowning of royalty at Brown

Highlighting the HILLTOPPER assembly was the presentation of Brown and Gold candidates Steve Hooper, Kathie Wright, Jim Hannah, Janet Campbell, Doug Timmons, Linda Gibbs, Jim Thomas and Linda Thompson.

The music of the Debonairs in a scene from the Arabian Nights set the mood for Howe's biggest fall dance, the Brown and Gold. The many Howeites and their guests who attended this year's dance found themselves among palm trees, a desert oasis, and silhouetted Arabian figures. The glittering crystal ball gave the effect of the desert sky at night as couples danced away the evening at the HILLTOPPER-sponsored dance. After a moment of suspense, Principal Thomas Stirling announced that senior Jim Hannah and junior Linda Thompson would reign as this year's Brown Boy and Golden Girl.

Again this year the tables were turned at the HILLTOPPER's annual spring dance, the Turn-about Twirl. For this dance the girls provide transportation and pay the expenses while the boys relax and enjoy the novelty of the situation. This year's Twirl was "way out," taking Satellite Swirl as its theme. In a silver and black world of space ships and satellites, Howeites danced to everything from waltz rhythms to rock and roll. The girls made corsages for the boys, and prizes were awarded in various categories.

Climaxing the evening, Mr. Stirling crowned Jim Hannah Brown Boy and Linda Thompson Golden Girl.

and Gold initiates Howe's social calendar

King Jim Hannah and Queen Dottie Shake reigned over "Moonlight Gardens," Junior Prom for Class of '61.

One of the symptoms of spring fever among Howeites is increased popularity of dances.

At the Sweetheart Dance, which the Senior Hi-Y sponsors each March, couples danced to the music of Sticks Hildreth's orchestra amid cupids and hearts clustered on the walls. The highlight of the evening came when this year's Hi-Y president, Tom Hollingsworth, crowned Beverly Sharp Hi-Y Sweetheart for 1961.

The two big social events that end each school year are the junior and senior proms. Juniors spent hours transforming the gym into a lovely spring scene. The lilting music and soft lights helped to make this dance an unforgettable evening for the class of 1962.

Just-graduated seniors danced to the music of Al Cobine and his orchestra under the clouds and stars of the Indiana Roof as they climaxed their high school years with a wonderful dance.

A memorable Junior Prom for '61 seniors, "Moonlight Gardens" blended spring colors and music for a perfect prom.

Hep rock-and-rollers, spacemen, gamblers,

"Cobbler's Caper," a satire about the elves who made the cobbler's shoes, was written by seniors Margot Sullivan and Diana Turpen and sponsored by Mr. Geoffrey Samuel. The idea for "Cobbler's Caper" was taken from the movie, "Tom Thumb." Discussing the types of shoes each liked best, the elves took the audience to different countries of the world. Spanish dancers, Nancy Stewart and Betty Harryman draw their dance routine, "Lady of Spain," to a close while elves, Walter, Bennett, Sutton, Canada, Wimmer, Eggert and Sams watch intently with delight.

"Destination Moon," written by seniors Sue Peterson and Pat Myers, took the audience on a trip in a rocket ship. Due to the endeavors of four singing scientists, three spacemen departed from earth for the moon. After learning that the moon was inhabited, the spacemen decided to stay. They beheld a lovely jazz dancer, moon dancers, and some horrible, green, moon creatures. To the utter amazement of the audience, the act also contained cowgirls. M. Wiegmann, P. Partington, C. Fields, and M. Goodwin added to the act with their vocal number, "Blue Moon."

"Colorama," written by juniors Barbara Bolander and Barbara Rhoads, was a collection of songs arranged together because their titles contained one or more colors. The idea of what the world would be without colors was impressed upon the audience with such numbers as "Red Sails In The Sunset," "Green Door," and "Blue Skies." A black-light number, Pink Elephants, was a highlight of the act.

and pretty girls comprise this year's PRR

ACT CHAIRMEN — Barbara Bolander and Barbara Rhoads, "Colorama"; Sue Peterson and Pat Myers, "Destination Moon"; Diana Turpen and Margot Sullivan, "Cobbler's Caper"; Beth Newman and Bonnie Jo Burk, "Fabulous Fifties"; Mary Devon Owen, Alyce Evans, and Midge Austin (not pictured), "Kansas City Chaos." During the spring, students begin writing scripts which are submitted to a panel of teachers who determine which acts will be best for the following PRR. A great deal of preparation by the chairmen and weeks of rehearsals made the PRR a memorable show.

"Fabulous Fifties," written by seniors Beth Newman and Bonnie Jo Burk, was a review of the 1950's. Recalling the fads and events of those years, the act included such highlights as the introduction of so many cowboys and Indians to television, the exploration of space complete with space-girls and sputniks, the latest fashion fads, and popular forms of music such as the blues, illustrated by "The Birth of The Blues," and rock and roll. Melvis, the current singing rage, portrayed by Fred Shick, had the rock and rollers in a shambles by his gyrations.

"Kansas City Chaos," written by Midge Austin, Alyce Evans, and Mary Owen, relates how Orville Hensley, a country boy, comes to the big city. Intrigued into a game of chance with four experienced gamblers, Orville, portrayed by Tim Witsman, somehow manages to win all the loot. But due to the evils of the big city, he loses all his money but one silver dollar to the tune of "Peg O' My Heart," act finale.

as we smear on make-up for the Reveler's play or sit in the audience and clap until our palms ache. While we watch R.O.T.C. pass in review or help the Student Council pick up papers during the Clean-Up Campaign, time vanishes. We go to after-school club meetings and initiations, but our plans and projects are soon past, and we are making P.R.R. plans for the year to come. . . .

ACTIVITIES

Keen competition, practice, and promotions

Enrollment of R.O.T.C. is 16% of the total number of boys enrolled at Howe. The purpose of R.O.T.C. is to prepare the cadets for their term in the armed forces after graduation.

Cadet sponsors march with the unit at parades and Federal Inspection and conduct an inspection of the corps on Thursday, at which time the cadets are required to "dress out" in full uniform. The six sponsors were screened by a faculty committee, inspected by the student body, and chosen by the cadets of the corps.

During the school year, the cadet corps worked at many functions to earn money for their sixth annual Military Ball, which was held in March. Honorary invitations were sent to President Kennedy, Governor Welsh, and Mayor Boswell. Cadet sponsors were candidates for Queen.

On Federal Inspection Day, May 23, 1960, several outstanding cadets of the corps received awards for their excellent performances.

At the Veterans' Day Parade, the girls' and boys' drill teams placed first in the city competition.

row—Smith, Glover, Scott, Jinks, Cox, Goines, Estes, and Stith. Throughout the year, they march at many games.

Rifle teams learn to "fire" with precision

The boys' rifle team, sponsored by M/Sgt. James H. Grandy, achieved a record to be proud of this year. To become a member of the team, one must have experience in firing, and be in the second year or above of R.O.T.C. Practicing three times a week using a single shot .22 rifle under the direction of Maj. Dennis Johnson, the team has shown excellent performance against strong competitive teams. Two of the most powerful teams that Howe overcame were North Central High School and Culver Military Academy. In the preliminary city match and the Randolph Hearst match, the boys' rifle team placed first in total points while four boys ranked among the top ten R.O.T.C. marksmen in the city.

The 1960-1961 girls' rifle team has existed for four years and is under the direction of Miss Kirk. To become and remain a member of the girls' rifle team, the girls must maintain a record of no failing marks and must not miss more than three practices, which are held on every Tuesday after school on the rifle range.

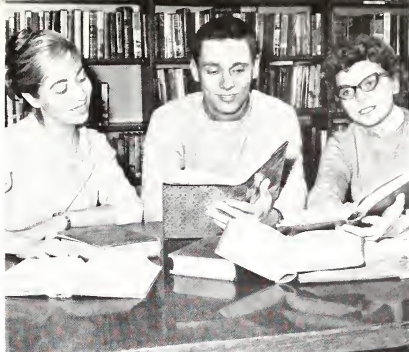

Cadets from the boys' rifle team coach the girls to help them improve their skill in firing the .22 rifle from several positions, such as prone, kneeling, standing, and sitting.

Although competition is scarce, the girls are ready to compete against any other girls' rifle teams. By increasing their ability, the girls encourage the boys to fire more efficiently, too.

GIRLS' RIFLE TEAM—Back row—Sharon Richards, Mary Deeter, Margo Garman, Becky Carter, Rita Scott, Nancy Carroll. Front row — Susie Dobbs, Cyndi Stevens, Sharon Van Sell, Linda Combs, Roslyn Hohn. With the exception of North Central, Howe is the only high school in the city that has a girls' rifle team.

Each year, many juniors and seniors are tapped during "tap" assembly to become members of the National Honor Society. To be eligible for membership, juniors must be in the upper ten per cent of their class and seniors in the upper fifteen per cent. At the formal initiation, candidates become official members, at which time they receive pins and certificates and light the NHS torch. This torch appears on the pins and represents the light of learning. Mr. Robert Turner, sponsor of the NHS, initiated an advisory council for the Howe chapter composed of one representative belonging to the NHS from each upper class home room.

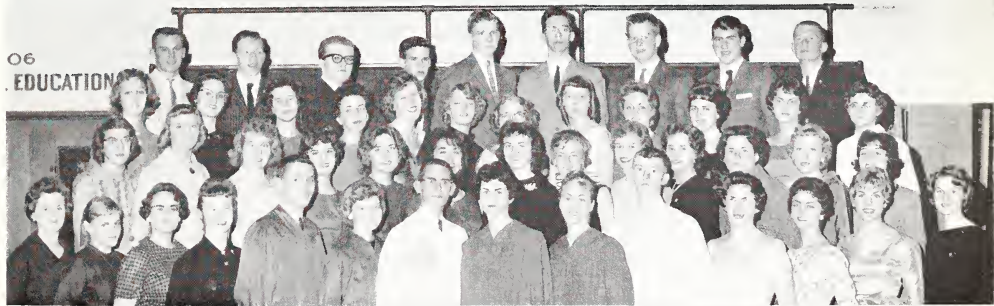

NHS officers, Betty Harryman, Tim Witsman, and Sandy Leonard meet to discuss future plans for the NHS.

Scholarship is the key word in the NHS

Student Council devotes its time to serving

During the school year, the Student Council sponsors many activities designed to create an interest among the student body. Since the beginning of its existence, it has served the students and the school well. The Student Council is comprised of one representative from each home room which is chosen by popular vote. Each representative serves on the Council for one year, after which time he or she may be re-elected if the members of his or her home room wish to do so. At the first meeting of the year, the election of officers was held, at which time Doug Timmons was chosen president; Sue Crossland, vice president; Dotty Shake, secretary; Betty Harryman, treasurer; Dallene Francis, asst. secretary; Tim Witsman, senior representative; Jay Bishop, junior representative; Dennis Wickes, sophomore representative; and Susan Stillabower, freshman representative. After the election of officers, an installation assembly was given installing them.

The cabinet, which meets every other week, consists of the officers and class representatives.

This year the Student Council had a very busy schedule beginning the term by assisting with the orientation of the fresh freshmen and performing such tasks as opening lockers and giving directions to the bewildered newcomers.

At a cabinet meeting, Jay Bishop, Dallene Francis, Sue Crossland, Denny Wickes, Doug Timmons, Tim Witsman, Susie Stillabower, Rosalyn Beitz, and Betty Harryman discuss Student Council affairs and plan projects.

students and school

The activities that the Student Council promoted and conducted this year have been numerous. As usual, the Student Council sponsored the Freshman Mixer, which turned out exceptionally well. In October, nine representatives attended the Student Council State Convention at Horace Mann High School in Gary, Indiana. During the football and basketball seasons, the Student Council arranged for the crowning of the Fall and Winter Sports Queens. Throughout the year, the Student Council sponsored many assemblies. After the last football game, Student Council conducted a dance for all Howe students.

During the Christmas holiday, the Student Council sponsored a window decoration contest. Each class exhibited a showcase. The seniors won first place. Several campaigns were launched by Student Council such as the courtesy and clean-up campaigns. The Senior-Faculty Game was given by the Student Council.

Duo John Stevenson and Dennis Wickes sing "Tipperary Medley" at the Student Council Talent Assembly.

Each year the Student Council sponsors the Senior-Faculty game after the close of the basketball season. This year the game was held on March 24. Members of the faculty dressed up in decorative array to add color to the evening. Faculty members Mr. Vencel and Mr. Stutz assist Mr. Schroder in "putting the ball in the basket" while seniors Paul Elich, Claude Hardin, and Denny Holmes take strategy notes.

HOWE TOWER promotes school spirit and

On May 22, 1939, the first issue of the HOWE TOWER was printed. Today, the HOWE TOWER still remains Howe's well-regarded bi-weekly publication. The HOWE TOWER is of historical significance because it is a record of what has happened at Howe for over twenty years. Looking through old issues of the HOWE TOWER, one may read many interesting articles which show that Howe times have indeed changed. For instance, did you know that during the first years of Howe:

The library had a book shower to obtain the first books to fill the vacant shelves.

The favorite foods of students were ice cream, chili, chicken, hamburgers, hot dogs, sea foods, and cherry pie. (Think of the pizza parties they missed!)

The initial enrollment of Howe was 450. (This year's enrollment is 1,975.)

The name, HOWE TOWER, was suggested in a christening contest sponsored by the Journalism Club.

Girls wore bent spoon bracelets, brown and gold saddle oxfords, and little white crew hats. (Today, they wear rings laden with angora or tape, squat heels, and false hair pieces.)

Footsore girls walked home barefooted from school . . . students rode bicycles. (Today, they're offended if they can't have the family car!)

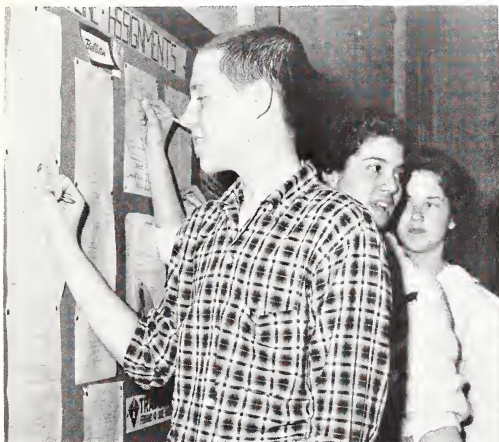

The HOWE TOWER is an activity offering the interested student a chance to participate in the business of publishing the school newspaper. From typist to ad agent, from reporter to copy reader, all share in the work and fun of contributing to make the HOWE TOWER more enjoyable for the public.

After a long and tiring evening, Jane Shick, editor-in-chief; Bonnie Jo Burk, city editor; Shirley Applegate, news editor; Jeannie Kightlinger, copy editor; Dave King, sports editor; and Barbara Parke, feature editor, have the TOWER ready for another printer's deadline.

Highlights and activities of the school

A crowd of thirsty Howe students gather around the refreshment table at the HILLTOPPER autograph party. The staff gives this popular after-school party the day the yearbooks arrive.

Mark Southerland rewards Vicki Woodward and Ric Anderson, homeroom agents with 100% yearbook sales.

year are combined into best yearbook ever

If you happen to be passing by Room 240, take a look inside. You will see the HILLTOPPER staff hard at work planning and putting together the best yearbook possible. There is hard work involved, but it has many rewarding factors, too.

With deadlines always in the future, each editor is working at a deadly pace with pages to plan, pictures to proportion, copy and captions to write, and headlines to count.

The business managers planned and supervised a very successful sales campaign. As money-making projects, the HILLTOPPER sponsors two very popular dances. The Brown and Gold, a semi-formal dance held in October, is reigned over by the Brown Boy and the Golden Girl. Held in April, the Turnabout Twirl gives the girls a chance to ask their favorite guys, make them corsages, and pay the expenses. Planning and decorating for these two dances proved to be a welcome change for the HILLTOPPER staff.

Towards the end of the school year tryouts are held for next year's staff. Each person puts together a sample section of the yearbook in which he is interested. Mr. Tout and seniors of the present staff judge the tryouts and the new staff members are announced. Certificates and pins were presented to the members of the 1961 staff at the annual Publications party in May.

Last summer, Sandy Bowen and Bill Gilkison attended the Journalism Institute at I.U. Mark Southerland, Terry Hohman, and Midge Austin attended the Journalism Institute at Michigan State. Midge received top awards, and Terry won an honorable mention.

The 1961 staff wishes to thank Mr. Earl C. Loudermilk and his staff, photography; Mr. Richard Brier, the Capitol Engraving Co.; Mr. P. M. Benefiel, Miles Press, Inc.; and Mr. Jack Bundy, S. K. Smith Cover Company, for their cooperation and advice in producing the yearbook.

The Howe chapter of QUILL AND SCROLL, an international honorary society for high school journalists, was organized last spring. To be eligible for membership in Quill and Scroll, one must be a junior or senior, have a B average, and write superior copy, or work actively on either of the school publications, the Howe TOWER or the HILLTOPPER. The group hopes to encourage students in journalism as a profession and to promote the ideals of better journalism throughout the community. The officers of the organization are Shirley Applegate, president; Barbara Parke, vice-president; Marcia Merkle, secretary-treasurer. Miss Holder is sponsor.

FORENSIC CLUB members take part in several state speech contests during the school year. All interested pupils are welcome to join this club, which strives for perfection in public speaking. Students may participate in original oratory, oratorical declamation, dramatic declamation, humorous interpretation, and poetry reading. Competition is stiff, but those who enter profit greatly by learning proper speaking techniques. Extemporaneous speaking encourages members to assemble their thoughts quickly before presenting them. Students may voice their opinions on political matters while improving their public speaking through such radio programs as Voice of Democracy and Junior Town Meeting. Mr. Robert Walker is the club sponsor.

Select singers entertain at school functions

The Madrigals is an unaccompanied singing organization composed of seven boys and seven girls. This a cappella group preserves the singing traditions of the 15th and 16th centuries. To give the right atmosphere, they usually group themselves around a candle-lit table.

They performed at three Christmas programs, and gave two concerts in February, for the Matinee Musicale and the Christian Ministers Meeting.

The boys' octet is another one of the musical organizations at Howe that provides entertainment at many school and community activities.

They perform at the P.R.R., banquets, assemblies, Christmas parties, on the radio program, Young America Sings, and for church activities. Their sponsor, Mr. Fleck, helps them plan flexible programs with a mixture of old and new tunes. Octet accompanist is Charles Peterson.

The choir is composed of students chosen from the boys' glee clubs and Choralaires. The annual Christmas program, Senior Vespers, Commencement, P.-T.A. meetings, and various assemblies are some of the school functions at which they have entertained. They performed for two youth rallies, on Monument Circle during Christmas, the Christmas Community Sing, the All-City Choir, and on the Young America Sings program. Performing with the Indianapolis Philharmonic Orchestra was their outstanding program this year.

Choralaires, the all-girl choral unit, is known as the "feeder group" of the choir. Girls are chosen from this group for the choir. They performed at our Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies, and at our Music Festival. The All-City Girls' Festival and the Poets' Corner Convention at the Columbia Club were two appearances they made outside their school programs.

Choosing from popular, patriotic, religious, and secular selections for their programs, the girls' octet is a singing group popular throughout the school and community. They give about 40 programs a year for civic groups, churches, school functions, P.-T.A., and on the Young America Sings program. Their program for the Central Y.M.C.A. Membership Campaign was the highlight of their appearances for the community.

"Pop" Watkins directs these three groups.

The Pep Band always adds some extra color and spirit to our games. They are shown playing at the Manual game.

Music makers give public performances

High-stepping at the football games is only one of the activities of the Howe Band. The group adds color to the ROTC Inspection and to assemblies. Smaller units such as the Pep Band, which plays at the basketball games, the German Band, and the Dance Band serve both Howe and the community. The organization marches in many of the downtown parades and plays for Memorial Day Services of the Irvington Post, American Legion.

In the State Band and Orchestra Contest last spring the Howe group received a first division rating. Thirty-one members of the Howe Band participated in the All-City Band.

According to Mr. Constantine Poulimas, director of the orchestra, this is the best orchestra since he has been at Howe. Seventy members strong, it is the largest ever organized at Howe. The Symphonette performs at Vespers, the Senior Play, the Revelers Play, the Community Christmas Program, the Hobby Show, the Annual Red Cross Heroism Dinner, and the National Honor Society.

This year's group won first division in the State Band and Orchestra Contest. Too, thirty members are in the All-City Symphony and fifteen in the All-State Orchestra. The Music Department, as a whole, has received thirty-one "first" ratings in the State Solo and Ensemble Contests.

Revelers dramatize Shaw's "Pygmalion"

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Bruce Beck, members of the Footlight Revelers take advantage of the opportunity to work with theatrical productions. Once a month members meet to learn the different aspects of the theater. Mr. Geoffrey Samuel, an exchange teacher from Sir Walter St. John's School in England, talked to the group on the British theater. Skits and demonstrations also helped members become better acquainted with the theater. Members are given an opportunity to work in putting on the P.R.R., the annual Revelers Play, and the Senior Class Play, by either working on the set, on the make-up committee, in the cast, or ushering. In the spring of the year the Revelers gave the play "Pygmalion," which was introduced on Broadway as the musical, "My Fair Lady." The National Thespian initiation ceremony took place in June. Eligibility for membership is based on the number of points earned for work on productions. The number of points required for membership is ten, each point representing ten hours of work. Officers of this year's club are President, Betty Haryman; Vice-President, Fred Shick; Secretary, Jane Shick; and Treasurer, Tim Witsman.

Athletic groups promote interest in sports

Co-sponsoring the Winter Wonderland Dance with the Lettermen's Club is one of the biggest yearly projects of the G.A.A. Under the guidance of Miss Guenter, the girls train for future enjoyment by mastering the techniques of such activities as bowling, swimming, and tennis. At a Mother and Daughter tea in the spring, the girls are presented awards on the basis of points they have earned during the year.

With their new brown and gold capes and gloves, sewed by members of the P.T.A., the one hundred girls of the CHEER BLOCK cheered at all of the season ticket games and at the Southport Sectionals.

To be eligible for membership in the LETTERMEN'S CLUB, sportsmen must receive a varsity letter; membership is retained, however, by participation in club activities. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Lyman Combs, the Lettermen help at the home basketball games by parking ears and ushering.

The Girls' Cheer Block, organized to spark school spirit at the home games, yells enthusiastically to encourage the Hornets on to victory.

To be eligible for membership in the HI-Y, one need only be a member of the Junior or Senior class. To encourage participation, members are asked to drop out when they have missed three consecutive meetings.

BETA HI-Y—Back row—Pfeiffer, Gilkison, Stiffler, Flick, Johnson, Fountain. Front row—Katzenburger, Jourdan, Carmichael, Sinclair, Barrett, Meek. Through BETA HI-Y, the Freshman and Sophomore boys are given a chance to prepare themselves for a better church and family life, as well as enabling members to get in shape for athletics during the remaining years in high school. The group, sponsored by Mr. VanDusen, meets twice a month.

Boys' clubs sponsor after-game dances

Working closely with the Senior Hi-Y in many of its activities, the Beta Hi-Y membership is open to any Freshman or Sophomore boy. Since the boys in the group are fourteen or fifteen and will be able to drive in the near future, one of the most important programs stressed is traffic safety. Another activity of the club is helping with the after game dances by selling refreshments. In order to raise money for the World Service project in co-operation with the YMCA, the Beta Hi-Y is planning a car wash in the spring. The club uses the Eastside Y for its meeting, swimming, basketball, and other activities. The officers of this year's club are Larry Carmichael, President; Clark Johnson, Vice-President; Tom Gilkison, Treasurer; Richard Stiffler, Sergeant-at-Arms. The group is under the guidance of Mr. George Van Dusen.

The Senior Hi-Y, under the direction of Mr. Crawford, meets twice a month at the Irvington Methodist Church. One of the biggest projects is that of sponsoring the dances after the basketball games. During the Christmas season the boys donated presents for mental patients. In the spring of the year the Hi-Y sponsors the Sweetheart Dance; candidates for Queen are selected by the boys of the group, while the whole school votes for the Hi-Y sweetheart. The National Hi-Y, Tri-Hi-Y convention, which is held once every three years, was attended by two representatives of Howe. Other members attended the leadership training camp at Flatrock. Mike Dugan was a representative to the Model U.N. which is sponsored by the YMCA for Marion County schools. At the Model U.N. Mike was elected Secretary-General. Howe represented Russia, Afghanistan, Indonesia, Japan, and the United Arab Republic. At the Model U.N. there are two delegates and one alternate for each country who are appointed by the officers of the club. Other activities of the Hi-Y include joint meetings with other Hi-Y groups, and collecting money for UNICEF. For the past two years the Howe group has been second in Marion County for the Parker Jordan Award for the best Hi-Y. This year's officers are: President, Thomas Hollingsworth; Vice-President, Thomas Sherron; Secretary, Mike Dugan; Treasurer, Thomas Otto; Chaplain, Steve Wilson; Sergeant-at-Arms, Eugene Sample.

Busy Tri Hi-Y, Selofra girls attend parties,

All junior and senior girls are eligible for membership in TRI HI-Y, one of the most active clubs at Howe. The largest and most important project of TRI HI-Y members is participation in the Model U.N. Patterned after the U.N. in New York, the Model U.N. consists of delegates from Hi-Y and Tri Hi-Y clubs in Marion County schools who dress as and portray the role of representatives from foreign countries.

Other activities of the club include sponsoring a Christmas Party, a New Year's Eve Dance, a Mother's Day Tea, and a banquet on Palm Sunday. A feature of the year is the bonfire following the last football game of the season.

In January is an induction ceremony when new members are introduced and are presented their membership pins. Mrs. Harriet Baker is sponsor.

style shows, panel discussions

SELOFRA, a freshman girls' club, helps acquaint girls with their new school. Organized so that it might promote friendship among girls of the freshman class, the club is one of Howe's largest. At the beginning of the year, each member is presented a green ribbon, the badge of membership in SELOFRA. In January, the members give a welcome party for the 9B's new to the club and Howe.

Although the main purpose of the club is to promote friendship, various activities are of considerable interest to club members. Each year, a beauty consultant presents a lecture, a panel of senior girls gives tips on a successful high school life, and a panel of Beta Hi-Y boys gives their opinions of the ideal girl. A spring style show climaxes the club's yearly activities. Miss Ellen O'Drain is club sponsor.

Planning the 9B welcoming party are Selofra officers Sue Scott, secretary; Ann Freeland, treasurer; Nancy Adams, president; Jen Bradley, vice president.

Several members of Howe's chapter of FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS of AMERICA attended the state convention, and won the spelling contest trophy. Donations are made by each member to the Marion County Home for the Aged at Julietta as a special project. Businessmen often visit meetings and aspects of business are discussed.

The boys who operate the public address system perform their duties at many school functions and for homeroom announcements each day.

Being a member of the FUTURE NURSES CLUB gives students an opportunity to learn about the possibilities of a medical career. In order to learn more about their intended vocation, the girls tour different hospitals, do volunteer work at the medical center, have speakers, and view films.

At most of the extracurricular activities, one is likely to find a member of the BUSINESS MANAGERS either taking tickets or ushering. The group performs a valuable service for the school while gaining personal experience. Their training also includes keeping financial records and sending out publicity concerning school activities.

Through speakers, movies, and dark-room demonstrations, members of the PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB learn the ins and outs to the art of snapping pictures and developing them. Finding interesting subject matter for their photos is only one of the many problems they meet as they "shoot" in city and state contest competition.

Each year JUNIOR RED CROSS CLUB members prepare gift boxes and tray favors for hospitals, children's homes, and homes for the aged. The girls also fill relief packages for underprivileged people overseas as a part of their many activities in helping the American Red Cross.

Members of the HOME ECONOMICS CLUB investigate the many phases of domestic life throughout the year in group activities, and guest speakers are often invited to speak on the more unusual aspects of homemaking. The club strives to train able homemakers and community leaders.

Competing against each other, members of the CHESS CLUB gain additional skill in that brain teasing game. Attending the national convention each year, several of the club members participated in the program on the Nominations and Publicity Committees. Mr. Geoffrey Samuels, a Latin exchange teacher to Howe, from England, spoke to the members about life in his country.

A former African missionary spoke at one of the FRENCH CLUB meetings this year about French people on that continent. Several parts of the meetings are conducted in French.

as we see seconds flash by on the scoreboard and hear the buzzer signal the end of another game. While we chant countdowns and predict the season's outcome, time vanishes. We move from football stadiums to indoor bleachers as winter sports begin; pigskin throwers become wrestlers and basketball players. But the attic soon rumbles with track practice, and all at once it's spring...

Experience and hard work enable gridmen

Coach Richard Guyer's last Howe football team finished the season with a five won, four lost, and one tied record. This was Howe's and Coach Guyer's third straight winning season. After dropping their first game to Tech 19-6, the Hornets roared back to win their next three games, beating the Crispus Attucks Tigers 31-6, the Manual Redskins 13-12, and the Noblesville Millers 15-13 on a safety.

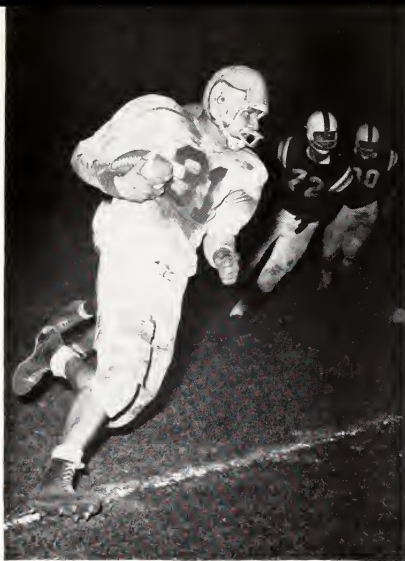

Even in defeat Howe always put up a game fight as demonstrated by the fact that our gridiron men gained more first downs than their opponents in every game but one. In nearly every game Howe gained over two hundred yards. Throughout the season the Hornets displayed an exciting brand of football. Against both Crispus Attucks and Madison Heights, Howe put on a dazzling display of power, crushing Attucks 31-6 and Madison Heights 40-0.

The team was certainly not without personal heroics. Halfbacks Tom Tiedeman, Bob Vaughn, and Bob Espich each made several spectacular runs during the season. In the Madison Heights game both Tiedeman and Espich ran more than 50 yards for touchdowns. Such explosive runs were what made the Howe eleven one of the most feared in the city. Senior quarterback Jim Hower proved himself to be not only a fine signal caller but a player who would come off the bench with a sprained ankle to throw a touchdown pass. Last, but certainly not least, is big Jim Hannah, Howe's hard-charging fullback. Jim, who was called on to get a necessary first down, consistently gained more than 100 yards a game because of his hard, fast running and effective blocking.

Tom Mulry, in charge of defense, and Gary Wallace, lineman, were named co-captains. The Best Mental Attitude Award went to Jim Hannah. Jim Hower was voted Most Valuable Player.

Both the reserves and the freshmen finished the season with .500 records. The freshmen were 3-3 while the reserves ended 3-3-1.

Experience is vital !

Each fall a group of determined freshmen head for the football field where they meet Coach Lyman Combs. The purpose of this meeting is to teach the boys the fundamentals of football and how to use them. Although the freshmen do not play in many games, they practice long and hard, for they must learn to develop their potential for future use. They drill daily on the south end of the football field, practicing blocking, tackling, running plays, and going over signals.

Coach Harrison Richardson is responsible for taking up where Mr. Combs leaves off. The reserve team stresses games, longer schedules, and original strategy, so that fine varsity players will develop for next year's team.

Expert blocking by the lineman opens a gap in the defense for Howe's leading scoring back, Jim Hannah.

Halfback Bob Vaughn heads for danger as two Madison Heights tacklers prepare to bring him down.

Next year the Hornets will definitely miss their fine coach, Mr. Richard Guyer. After his rugged first year, Mr. Guyer built three straight winning seasons. This record was not easily won in an area with competition as difficult as that found in Indianapolis. Guyer's men had a 21-16-2 record over all four years, and 20-8-2 for the last three years.

This year's varsity team was typical of recent Hornet teams. After the loss of a very promising halfback and letterman on last year's team, Mansfield Lambirth, Coach Guyer played two underclassmen at the halfback position. Bob Vaughn and Tom Tiedeman performed like seasoned veterans, and the pair saved many a play. Gridmen like these will be returning next year to form a hardy nucleus for the 1961 team.

The Howe line was a balanced combination of experience and desire. Pound for pound there wasn't a harder working team to be found anywhere in the city, especially in defense tactics.

"What'll we do, coach?" says Tom Mulry as he consults Coach Dick Guyer during a game timeout.

With individual city champion Bill Harold leading the way, Howe's varsity harriers posted a winning 4-3 mark in dual meets. Coach Rex Anderson's team also did well in meets involving more than two teams. Howe placed sixth out of eleven teams in the City Meet and eighth in a field of fifteen entered in the 20th annual Howe Invitational Meet.

It was an uphill struggle for the Hornets who lost their first three meets to Washington, Warren Central, and Burris of Muncie, but a smashing victory over Crispus Attucks gave the Howe runners the confidence they needed for a winning season. The harriers finished the season by defeating Manual, North Central, and Ben Davis. Out of thirty teams entered in the Sectional, Howe finished ninth. Bill Harold received the Ray Bowman Cross Country Award for his outstanding record for the season.

Howe's freshmen won both of their dual meets and placed second in the City Meet. The reserves ran in two meets posting a 1-1 record.

Intramurals offer class sports competition

Handy with a bow are archers Nancy Sturgeon, Susan Stafford, and Sherrie Sams, as they aim for the center of the bull's eye at a G.A.A. session.

For those boys who do not have time, desire, or ability to participate in inter-school sports, intramurals offer many advantages. They allow boys to participate in sports, which they enjoy, strictly for fun and relaxation. Since no special qualifications are necessary to participate in intramurals, except that one must be a member of an organized team, intramural sports appeal to many boys of all grades.

Although intramurals are approved by the school administration and sponsored by faculty members, the boys organize and govern their own affairs. The major sport in which the boys participate is basketball. Teams are organized according to class designation.

Usually composed of ten players, each team elects a captain and selects a name. Throughout the year, each team usually plays in competition at least once a week. At the end of the season, the teams play in a tournament. The two top teams compete for medals directly prior to the Senior-Faculty game.

Waiting in anticipation of a pass, members of junior-senior intramural basketball teams watch their teammates fight for a rebound in the upperclass championship game. Victors were the hard-playing Rejects.

Girls interested in athletics spend many happy and healthful hours participating in the class tournaments and the off-campus activities such as swimming and bowling, which are part of the program of the Girls' Athletic Association.

The crowning of the Winter Wonderland King and an appearance by Santa Claus were the feature events at the annual Winter Wonderland Dance, the dance sponsored jointly by the G.A.A. and the Lettermen's Club.

In the spring the G.A.A. sponsored a gym meet featuring competition on the parallel bars, side horse, and other apparatus. Outside judges officiated at the event and awarded ribbons to the winners of each event.

April 15 was G.A.A. State Plaque Day. To receive a plaque, which is the highest award given to G.A.A. members, a girl must accumulate a total of 350 G.A.A. points. Four Howe girls, Susan Stafford, Jean Schorling, Nadine Yeager, and Marsha Crockett received plaques.

Quick thinking, precision maneuvering, and long hours of practice enable Clara Bell to perform a back flip.

Interests in sports provide G. A. A. appeal

Part of G.A.A. activities include instruction and workouts on various gym apparatus. Carole Weaver demonstrates on the rings proper form for a split.

Netmen display spirit despite inexperience

Acting royalty for the Seccina game were Winter Sports Queen candidates Nancy Hill, Betty Leach, Anna Kutche, Queen Donna Prell, Myra Early, Vicky Woodward, Janet Homeier, and Nancy Bowman, not present.

With only two returning lettermen, Paul Elich and Claude Hardin, Coach Jim Stutz faced the task of putting together a varsity basketball team with little background. After investigating, he came up with four seniors, three juniors, and four sophomores who came within eight points of beating the second best team in the state, Manual, within fifteen points of city champs, Crispus Attucks, and within three points of county runner-up, Ben Davis. A lack of height also plagued the netters with the average height being only five feet, eleven inches for the varsity squad.

A three won, seventeen lost record was compiled by the varsity, defeating Lawrence Central, Greenfield, and Terre Haute Garfield. The Garfield game was won in the last second on a jump shot by senior guard, Claude Hardin. Hardin, who received the Most Valuable Player Award, and Denny Holmes, winner of the Best Mental Attitude Award, both sported twelve-point plus scoring averages, while the brunt of the rebounding was carried by Paul Elich, center stalwart.

and a lack of height

Leading scorer and team captain, Denny Holmes, suffered a broken wrist in the Seccina game, and it was feared that hope for further victories was lost. But the next week the Hornets came within eight points of defeating Manual in a breath-taking game. In the Southport Sectional the Stutzmen faced the much taller Hancock Central team and were defeated by a sixteen-point margin.

The Hornets played one of the most ruthless schedules in the State consisting of four Sectional champion teams and three teams that reached the "Sweet Sixteen." 1960-61 was a building year for the basketball team, and much valuable experience was gained. Next year's team will boast a nucleus of seven returning lettermen.

Future is bright as Frosh compile .470 record

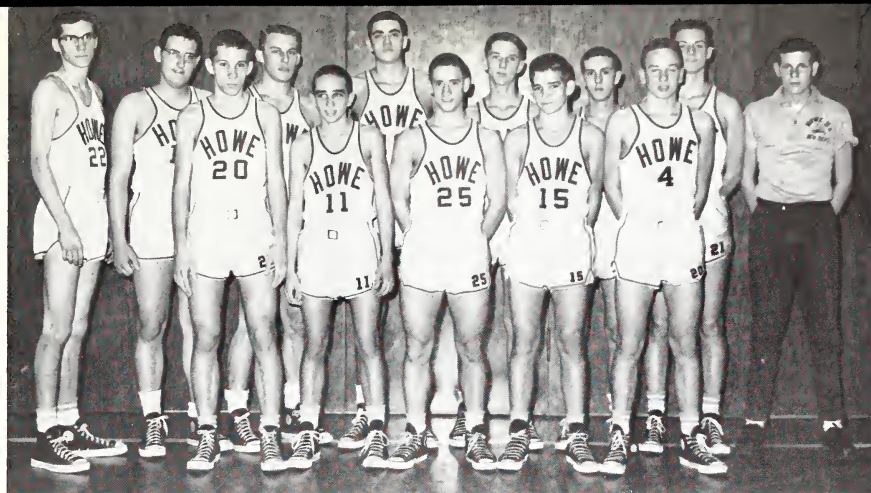

In reserve action, Dave Nichoalds fires a jump shot over his opponent, as Larry Miller watches intently.

Basketball interest is still strong at Howe, and there is a bright future to look forward to as the 1960-61 Freshman team sported an eight won-nine lost record. Many Varsity basketball players are born from the Freshman team, and this year's team promises good things ahead. Rough practices late each afternoon under the coaching of Mr. Roger Schroder, enabled the Frosh to defeat Ben Davis, Seecina, Broad Ripple, and Sacred Heart, each by more than ten points. The Hornets conquered Broad Ripple again in the City Tournament but were later ousted by Crispus Attucks. The Freshman "B" team played two games but was unsuccessful in both encounters.

The Reserve team, coached by Mr. Steve Vencel, had a hard luck year winning only four of nineteen games. Wins were scored over Greenfield, Terre Haute Garfield, Seecina, and Lebanon, but in four games the Hornets were defeated by only five points or less each game.

Determined grapplers puff, groan, and diet

Ask any boy who has been out for wrestling in what sport he worked hardest to get into condition, and he'll invariably reply, "Wrestling." Varsity Coach Roy Moon and Reserve Coach Denny Krick demand hard work of their boys. Led by John Leane, voted Most Valuable Wrestler by his teammates, matmen worked hard to achieve a winning season. Unfortunately, the team lacked experience in some important divisions and had to settle for a 3-10 record. In each match, Howe would drop far behind at the start only to come roaring back with a strong but futile finish.

Mr. Moon was particularly gratified at the showing made by heavyweight Jim Hannah, who had never wrestled before this year. Mr. Moon's only regret is that Jim, who won seven matches and lost six, is a senior. Captain Steve Guidone, a junior, the best wrestler in the lightweight division, achieved a nine won and four lost record for himself.

With returning lettermen Steve Guidone and John Leane, Mr. Moon has a fine nucleus for next year's team. John compiled the best individual record winning nine, tying two, and losing two.

Since the Varsity Wrestling team changes from match to match, any boy may be on both the varsity and reserve teams during the season. Any wrestler may challenge a varsity wrestler in his weight class to a match. If the challenger wins, he then becomes a member of the varsity team.

Discussing strategy for a forthcoming tennis meet are Larry Carmichael, Steve Guidone and John Nonweiler.

Under the coaching of Mr. Lyman Combs, the 1960 Howe Tennis team completed its sixth year of competition with a six won, five lost record. Sparked by lettermen Ron Banta, Ron Guidone, George Nonweiler, and Jim Thompson, the racquetmen posted wins over Ben Davis, Manual, Broad Ripple, Columbus, Shortridge, and Southport. In the City Meet, George Nonweiler copped the championship of the first division, and Sophomore John Robeson was runner-up in the third division. At the awards banquet in June, Senior George Nonweiler received the Most Valuable Player Award.

Consisting of several underclassmen, the Golf team for 1960 posted a five won, nine lost, one tied record. Coach Fred Lemley directed the spirited linksmen to wins over Sacred Heart, Manual, Warren Central, Lawrence Central, and Seccina, and to seventeenth place in the Regional Meet. Returning letter winners, Jim Birk, Ken McCoy, and David Smartz, composed a nucleus for the group with par shooting. A junior team member, Jim Birk, turned in low scores in several inter-school meets, winning many first places as well as the Most Valuable Player Award.

Diamondmen claim City Championship

At the start of the 1960 baseball season, Coach Roscoe Pierson and his players looked forward to extending Howe's record of winning baseball teams one more year. Two months later they were city champions. The hustling Hornets didn't slip in on a fluke; they became champs by winning eleven games while losing only two. Both of Howe's defeats were by one run. The diamondmen's 5-4 loss at the hands of Washington was the Hornets' only defeat in city competition. A tough Southport nine inflicted Howe's other defeat by a 1-0 score.

Steve Bruner was selected captain by his teammates. The Best Mental Attitude Award went to Ken Brewer, and Errol Spears was voted the Most Improved Player. Ronnie Yeskie received the Most Valuable Player award, and it was Ronnie's fine pitching that did the most to silence the opposition's bats. Since Ronnie was only a sophomore, he will be around to bolster the Hornet's mound staff for two more years. Ronnie received very capable support from two fine senior hurlers, hard throwing southpaws Bob Turner and Charlie Davis, a returning letterman.

Strong pitching, good fielding, and timely hitting, the ingredients that make a winner, were the result of hard work and determination. Though the team's batting average was not great, the formula for success was so close to that of the Chicago White Sox that the team was nicknamed the "Go Go Hornets."

"Another winning season" describes Howe's 1960 track team schedule. Coach Rex Anderson was very pleased with the performance of his six-lettermen team as they posted a sparkling nine won, one lost record. Decisive wins over Bloomington, Cathedral, Ben Davis, and Columbus, each by more than twenty points, highlighted the season. The team's sole loss was dealt by Broad Ripple by a slim six points.

In the spring season of 1960, two new school records were set by senior lettermen Ken Huff and Ron Lewellen. Huff lowered the 880-yard run record to 2:00.5, while Lewellen upped the shot put record to 53'7". The Hornets copped fourth place in the City Meet at Tech, and later, in the sectional meet at Washington, they placed in third position. Qualifying for the State Meet were Ron Lewellen, Ken Huff, and Mike Kelley, in the shot put, 880-yard run, and high jump, respectively. Ron Lewellen placed fourth in the state.

Howeites on the reserve track team listed a three and three record, while the freshman unit had a six won, two lost season.

Senior Ken Huff received the Most Valuable Player Award, and Dick Woodbury won the Carl Spiees Award for being voted the freshman team member with the best mental attitude.

Shot-put wizard Ron Lewellen strains every muscle to place high in the State Meet at Tech High School.

Managers are organizers behind sports scene

ATHLETIC MANAGERS—Back row — Oliver, Smith, Bruner, Mansfield. First row — Dugan, Pruett, Fields, Rose. The athletic managers assist the coaches and the players at both practice and competitive events, administering first aid for minor injuries, and keeping track of the team equipment.

"I don't know what's wrong. I think I might have twisted my ankle." Day in and day out the managers hear these and many other complaints. Every afternoon they devote their time to taping ankles, putting antiseptic on cuts, healing blisters, and in general seeing that Howe athletes are taken care of as well as possible. In case of any more serious injury, the managers are quite capable of giving first aid.

Equipment is important too. It is the manager's job to see that equipment is issued and recorded accurately. In addition the managers also take care of team uniforms making sure they are clean and ready to wear. The towel room too is the Manager's domain.

Besides all the afternoon functions of the managers, they have an obligation to the teams on weekends too. Every game the managers are there, keeping statistics, helping with minor injuries, and keeping the equipment.

This year's frosh cheerleaders are Janice Cobb, Donna Prell, Ruth Egan, Diana Crossland and Diane Townsend.

Much of the pep and enthusiasm for Hornet football and basketball is due to efforts of cheerleaders Butler, Campbell, S. Jones, Groom, Partington, N. Jones.

Energetic cheerleaders arouse school's spirit

Neither rain nor snow nor gloom of defeat could keep the cheerleaders from generating enthusiasm at Howe football and basketball games. Under the watchful eye of Miss Janice Brown, the girls spend each Wednesday afternoon trying out new techniques and practicing old ones. The smoothness and precision of group movements when seen at games is not accidental; it is the result of hard work and good training.

Activities of the yell-leaders are not confined to leading cheers at the games. They are also responsible for organizing and directing all pep assemblies, the pre-sectional assembly, sportsmanship speeches, and the spirit-boosting cheerblock. At these assemblies and block meetings, the girls introduce the team and teach new yells to the Howeite fans.

Try-outs for cheerleading positions are held each year, and to prepare for these occasions, the applicants must design and execute a new routine to illustrate their ingenuity and agility.

From making posters to shouting through megaphones, the cheerleaders play an important part in maintaining and cultivating school spirit.

RESERVE CHEERLEADERS — Weaver, Robertson, Dobbs, Wright, Hopping, Townsend. The reserve cheerleaders arouse the spirit of the fans during both football and basketball seasons. Cheerleaders are chosen in tryout sessions.

and the strangers in the halls on the first day of school become our closest friends. Sitting in lunch-hall, we plan with our neighbors where to meet after school or what to wear to the game, and while we plot, time vanishes. We join in noisy jam sessions before school; we share quiet evenings on coke dates; we enjoy people, at the jamboree, in our classes, and at commencement. . . .

Administrators work for "a better Howe"

Mr. Stirling expresses both pleasure and surprise as Doug Timmons unveils the color portrait of Mr. Stirling presented to the school by the P.T.A.

Proud of high esteem which patrons, alumni, and educators have for Howe, Principal Thomas Stirling and his staff always aim toward the betterment of Howe by making our plant and instructional program the best possible.

Too, faculty members not only teach in the classroom, but they also sponsor extra-curricular activities, counsel students, and display leadership in professional organizations.

To improve their professional status, many of the faculty during the past summer studied or traveled abroad, attended conferences, institutes, and workshops, and worked on advanced degrees.

Besides the teaching staff, office workers, maintenance staff, and cafeteria workers perform vital services by taking care of the numerous clerical duties, plant maintenance, and food preparation needed to maintain an efficient school.

Time out for morning tea with fellow staff members becomes custom for Mrs. Vesta Cohee, Howe Latin teacher teaching at Sir Walter St. John's School in England.

British customs are introduced to Howeites

Although heavy rain, deep snow, and humid weather gave him an unusual reception, Mr. Geoffrey Samuel, exchange teacher from England, enjoyed teaching at Howe for a year. A Latin master in the Sir Walter St. John School for boys in London, Mr. Samuel was unaccustomed to our co-educational schools. However, he soon became very active in school activities, first sponsoring a PRR act and later assisting Mr. Beck with both the senior play and the Revelers play. In an assembly program and talks to several English classes, Mr. Samuel gave Howeites a vivid picture of English life.

Mrs. Vesta Cohee, Howe Latin teacher, who took Mr. Samuel's place at Sir Walter St. John for the 1960-61 school year found that English schools have a more concentrated curriculum than do ours.

Both feel the value of the exchange teacher program is the opportunity to see another country as a resident rather than as a tourist.

Mr. Samuel models the master's robe often worn by English teachers as he tells Vicki Newhouse and Mike Dugan that English schools don't have student lockers.

Graduation brings a finale to high school

In the fall of '57 we entered Howe High School as Freshmen. We sat on the south bleachers as other Freshmen had before us, dreaming of the day when we would sit in the honored front row seats. A few of us might have acquired elevator tickets, asked about the swimming pool on the fourth floor, or walked into an economics class when we were enrolled in English I.

As sophomores, thinking that we knew all about high school life, we were seen advising incoming Freshmen. We were seen with bug nets and carbon-tet jars in hand chasing after those precious specimens needed to complete biology collections of fifty insects.

Our Junior year we moved from the bleachers to the back section of chairs in assembly. By then we were accustomed to Howe life and pretty much took everything in stride. We received our class jewelry in February and were proud to show our membership in the class of '61. May found us dancing in "Moonlight Gardens" at a Junior Prom that will long be remembered.

For the Winter Party, Silver Bells, Seniors appear in their party best. "Dressing up" for the class parties has long been a tradition of Howe Seniors.

days for 392 elated Seniors

Our Senior year has hustled by. Keeping busy with all of our classes and activities, the arrival of graduation week seemed to come all too quickly, and suddenly we realized that indeed How(e) time flies! Wednesday, June 7, marked the first step toward graduation, when we received our caps and gowns a week in advance, so those very important graduation pictures could be taken for relatives. Thursday, June 8, was Spring Party time, our final class party at Howe. June 9, our last day of school and the date of our last report cards, eventually rolled around. Sunday afternoon, June 11, we attended vespers with other seniors, our families, and friends. On June 14, at six-thirty in the evening, 392 seniors began to march down the Tower steps to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" to receive diplomas. As we sat and listened to the graduation speaker we started reminiscing . . . our first assembly and all the jeers, the excitement of preparing for our first dance, and our first sectionals held at Southport. As the speaker discussed the future, we began to think of our classmates and what they would be doing a year or so from now. Some will be in college and some will be working at various jobs. As the speaker finished, some of us were smiling while others had tears in their eyes.

Ending four years of high school, we danced in splendor at the Indiana Roof to the music of Al Cobine and his band for our senior prom.

College Night aids seniors toward a better college or vocational life. M/Sgt. Kenneth Roush, Army recruiting officer, gives Steve Kitchen and his mother, Mrs. Virginia Kitchen, facts about a future in military occupations.

Nursery rhyme mystery produced by senior

After a mysterious recording cites the murders committed by each of the guests, Mrs. Rogers faints from fright and Vera, Blore, Lombard, Marston, Wargrave, and Rogers anxiously look on as Dr. Armstrong examines her. She is the second to die fulfilling the children's rhyme.

Judge Wargrave ironically makes the shocking assumption, "The killer must be one of us!" while Armstrong, Emily, Rogers, and Blore gasp in startled disbelief.

Make-up artists Midge Austin and Vickie Newhouse carefully age Marsha Crockett and Uldis Duselis for their roles. Many seniors functioned in back-stage roles.

thespians for suspenseful class play

Agatha Christie's "And There Were None" was directed by Mr. Bruce L. Beck for this year's senior play. In only four weeks of rehearsals, somewhat frustrated by snow, snow, and more snow, the cast put together a show which produced a memorable performance of high suspense and intrigue.

Based upon the nursery rhyme "Ten Little Indians," the play concerns ten people being invited by an unknown host for a weekend on isolated Indian Island. As both suspense and tension mount, characters accuse each other of the ingenious murders which occur according to the provisions of the rhyme. After the first murder of Marston, a playboy, the suspects include Rogers, the butler; Mrs. Rogers, the cook; Vera, the secretary; Lombard, a soldier-of-fortune; Blore, a detective; Mackenzie, an old soldier; Emily, an old maid; Wargrave, a judge; and Armstrong, a doctor. Also in the cast was Narracott, the delivery boy. Mr. Geoffrey Samuel, exchange teacher from London, England, assisted in the production, and Leslie Freeman was student director for the two-performance run.

Long-awaited traditions became realities as Juniors became Seniors. In September, their role began with their assignment to Senior Home-room in the cafeteria, class election, and the front chairs in assembly. Excitedly they dressed up in their party finery for the Senior party, "Silver Bells." They wore their symbolic colors: white representing pureness of heart and mind, lavender representing personal initiative, and violet representing courage of conviction. In March, the class presented "And There Were None" as their Senior Play.

As June comes, the Senior pace increases rapidly as Senior Day, Vespers, and the excitement of graduation approaches. On the evening of June 14, Seniors will assemble on the front campus to receive their diplomas under the Tower. After graduation and the prom, the Class of 1961 will go their separate ways, but they will always remember their years at Howe.

Usherettes Margaret Flowers and Caryl Rogers welcome seniors Barbara Joseph and Tom Trusty as they arrive for the Friday evening performance of the senior play.

Camilla,
 You a sweet but very killy gal who sit across from me in lunch. You were alot of fun and made our lunch table the craziest in 5th hour. You got the most and sweetest little sister and I know you'll be a great help to her in the future.
 Best of Luck Always.

Love,
 Sherry

To Sis, a very sweet girl, whom I have enjoyed knowing. May God bless you and remember me in your prayer. I wish you much success in life.
 Love us

How(e) Time Flies...

past the circled calendar dates and on to summer plans. The 1961 HILLTOPPER is completed, and the last issue of the TOWER for this year has been read; choir robes are hung neatly in the closet, and the octets have sung their final program. R.O.T.C. uniforms have been returned to headquarters, and cheer block yells no longer echo from the gym. Blue clouds of chemistry lab experiments have faded from the third floor; the smell of sawdust is cleared from the hall by the woodshop. Radiators no longer hiss; light switches no longer click on and off. Seniors are handed their diplomas, and old lockers are cleared for next fall's freshmen. Interests that kept us so busy all this school year now close, and June is here. . .

Sis.
 Is a real swell gal who
 I have really enjoyed knowing.
 Sis, stay as sweet as you are, and
 you'll go far.
 May God bless you.
 Jenni

Camilla,

I wish you would use all of my ideas if you use any of them. But really I don't expect you to do something that is completely against your sweet nature. I guess my nature is just different than yours. I hope we get over our +HAT crush because it would be horrible to go through life with a crush on a married man. But some people do. I love your little sister and would like to congratulate you because you've really won a prize.

Stay as sweet as you are right now and as "speak your own thought" ish.

Donna Jean

Camilla,
